

Victoria Stout

541-678-0521

If I were Mayor, I would...

I heard being mayor was a hard thing to do for a job. I heard it was hard to even ask. There is a lot that you need to do when you are a mayor like fixing Roads, Recreational Parks, Housing, Schooling, And a lot more. If I were mayor I would take care of Roads, Recreation, and Schooling. Here are reasons why I would do these three things.

The first thing I would do is build more Recreational places. To help improve our Recreation I would build more active places outside. The only place where you can mainly find active spots to do things are inside of buildings. For example yoga, and dance. They both are active, but they can be done outside. I would also build more places to do parkour. Kids and teens seem to like doing it so I would find an open area and build a few places for it. I would make it so that there are more difficult places and easier places to do active things such as long distance running and short distance running. Also, Since no one is equal I would make harder and easier courses because people have a limit on certain things they can do. Not everyone can do everything. Nothing's that easy.

Then I would build better roads. I would fill all of the potholes so cars have less of a chance to get stuck. Also, I would make it so the roads are less bumpy. Kids have a lot of trouble going over the bumps on skateboards, longboards, and whatever else they ride in the road. I would also make less one way streets. I would make less one way streets because there have been many people who don't look at signs on the streets and they end up going the wrong way and they cause accidents on the roads that lead to injuries that lead to people's deaths. The last thing I would fix is schooling.

One of the last things that I would fix are the school programs and ways of education for the attending students. I would fix this because students struggle in classes. I would make easier classes for the ones who struggle, medium classes for kids in the middle group who get it but don't really get what they learn, and harder classes for the ones who don't. I would make it so there are after school activities that kids can pick out so they have fun things they want to do. Also, I would make it so kids at school feel good about themselves. I would do that by making it so there are no problems and/or bullies in that school. I would put the well behaved kids in a school for well behaved kids and non well behaved students would be put in a different school. That way there would be no problems for innocent kids who go to school to learn and not to deal with kids who think they own the place.

In conclusion if I were mayor, we as a community would become closer by visiting the new recreation parks and meeting new people and creating friendships among people, driving on new roads with the road rage that most people have, and in schools making it so every child can learn and feel good about themselves and their grades. This is why I believe that I should become the Mayor of Redmond.